In former times, while we were never so anguish as the peace philosophers, we did think there was something respectable in mankind. We thought the coming of the redeemer was poured down like dew from heaven blossomed in some fair, bright flowers of Christian love. But we cannot contemplate this awful scene without feeling that the heart of man is indeed at enmity with God, and is desperately wicked. It is an evil of the birds, with devils dancing in fire of their own making, and that is pretty strong language—more flitting to man, as it appears, than to the birds. If this thing is kept up, we may expect a new calamity to be brought to smiting childhood, and the "acc" struck out of the command "Thou shalt not kill." It is a picture that language cannot paint, for the bare fact is beyond all aid in language to give it further force or significance. It is a terrible epic tragedy in itself, brief and bloody.

It can be claimed that the great majority of the christian world abhors this state of affairs, but if the majority of the christian world will have little weight in the scales. The nations sit around like the Greeks east on the shores of Polyphesus, waiting for the next victim to be handed over to the carving knife, and there is no Utis—we believe he was the chap—to propose to stop the extermination of the one-eyed giant.

We have not even the consolation of the good wife, who only asked that her husband and the bear should be allowed to fight it out fair; for all nations, but the heads of events, are plunged into the row. We cannot say the slaughter, but there is one who can, and let us hope and pray that He will, at an early day, before we are plunged into perdition.

The news from Washington is exciting.

The Star says the telegraph lines from the fortress were cut at an early hour this forenoon was continued by the advance of the rebel forces to a point about four miles west of Fredericksburg, where their progress was halted by the arrival of a large force of Union troops. Subsequently we hear of them retreating, and that they are now at a point about ten miles west of Washington.

The Star says the numbers and purposes of the rebel invading force are confusedly conflicting. We give the opinion entertained by many that the rebel force is not of great importance, and that it is merely a diversion to draw the Union forces from the front of the picket lines, upon what is known as the river road, up to noon yesterday.

Our Receipt to make Current Wine.

For several years we have made a ten-gallon keg of current wine, which is of good quality as any we have tasted, and is generally so pronounced by those who have had an opportunity to judge. The mode of manufacture is simple, and can easily be followed by any family having the currants and disposition to make the wine. For general information, we give as in reply to private inquiries, we will the receipt after which we make it.

The currants should be fully ripe when picked, put them into a large tub, in which they should remain a day or two; then crush with the hands, unless you have a small patent wine-press, in which they should be pressed. Do not use too much of the press, but bruise and impart a disagreeable taste to the juice. If the hands are used, put the crushed fruit, after the juice has been poured off, in a cloth or sack and press out the remaining juice.

Put the juice back into the tub after cleaning it, where it should remain about three days, until the first stages of fermentation are over, and removing once or twice a day the scum copiously arising to the top. Then put the juice in a vessel—a demijohn, keg or barrel—of a size to suit the quantity made, and to each quart of juice add three pounds of the best yellow sugar, and soft water sufficient to make a gallon.

Ten quarts of juice and thirty pounds of sugar will give you ten gallons of wine, and so on in proportion. Those who do not like sweet wine can reduce the quantity of sugar to two and a half, or who wish it very sweet, raise to three and a half pound.

The vessel must be full and the bung or stopper left until fermentation ceases, which will be in twelve or fifteen days.

Meanwhile the cask must be filled up daily with currant juice left over, as fermentation ceases, rack the wine off carefully, either from the spigot or by a siphon, and keep running all the time.

Clean the cask thoroughly with boiling water, then return the wine, bung up tightly, and let stand for a few months when it will be fit to drink, and can be
